

PRIVACY SCREENS

In acute healthcare intake settings, privacy, dignity, and calm are essential from the moment a patient arrives. High-traffic intake and assessment areas often require flexibility—especially when space is limited or patient volume changes quickly. Our Privacy Screens provide an immediate, non-permanent way to create functional separation, supporting confidential conversations and reducing stress without the need for construction or fixed walls.

Designed to block both sightlines and sound, these sound-absorbing screens help minimize visual distractions and reduce ambient noise by up to 55%, creating quieter, more focused intake spaces. This improved acoustic control supports clearer communication between patients and care teams, enhances comfort during assessments, and helps staff work more efficiently in busy environments.

Portable, durable, and easy to reconfigure, these screens are well-suited for intake desks, triage areas, registration zones, and patient overflow spaces. Whether defining semi-private intake stations, supporting sensitive one-on-one conversations, or adapting layouts during peak census, they offer healthcare teams the flexibility they need—while maintaining stability, safety, and a respectful patient experience.

Why Privacy Screens Work for Group Living

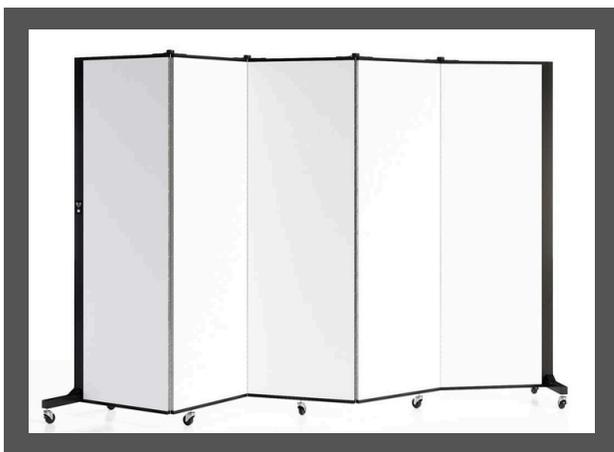

- Blocks both sight and sound for improved privacy
- Helps create calmer, more comfortable environments
- Reduces distractions in shared spaces
- Encourages open communication and dignity
- Supports adaptable layouts without renovation

Product Highlights

- One-person setup
- Sound-dampening construction
- Exceptionally durable & stable
- Practical and economical
- Made in the U.S.A.
- Fully hinged panels allow for multiple configurations—straight lines, L-shapes, zig-zags, or semi-circles—to fit your space and needs. Units pass easily through standard doorways and store compactly in a 2' x 3' footprint when not in use.
